

ABSTRACT

A liquid storage tank cleaning apparatus which utilizes the power of an existing pump in the tank to provide automatic cleaning and removal of both floating debris and sediment. The cleaning action is initiated, carried out and terminated automatically, greatly reducing the cost of monitoring and operating the system.